

HOTEL HORROR

Twenty Lives Known to Be Lost in a New York Fire.

The Royal Hotel in Flames At 8 O'Clock This Morning.

WINDOWS SHREWD WITH SHRIEKING MEN AND WOMEN.

The Building Was Five Stories in Height and All the Inmates Were Asleep When the Fire Broke Out—The Wife of the Proprietor Among Those Who Perished—The Halls Packed With Half-Suffocated People Endeavoring to Escape.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—At 8:15 o'clock this morning fire broke out in Hotel Royal, Forty-second street and Sixth avenue. The halls were packed with half-suffocated guests and the windows shrewd with shrieking men and women. One woman jumped from a window and was killed. The first reports placed the killed at between fifteen and twenty.

At 8:45 flames were bursting from the upper windows and the excitement outside as it became known that many were penned up became intense.

John Yates, a retired merchant, many years a guest of the hotel, was caught in the hallway and was supposed to be lost, but forced his way out, badly singed.

Mrs. Richard Mears, wife of the proprietor, jumped from the second story window and badly injured her spine.

On the top floor of the building, which is five stories high, forty persons, including servants, were asleep when the alarm broke out. It is impossible in the confusion to tell how many had escaped. The first report was that all had perished.

SIX DYING WOMEN.

Four alarms were sent out and at 8:30 there was a call for an ambulance. At the latter hour six women, who had been helped out of the burning building were on the sidewalk, supposed to be in a dying condition, waiting for the ambulances. A large number of fremen were employed in rescuing the guests, who had rushed from their rooms terror-stricken and screaming.

At 8:45 flames were bursting from many of the windows, and scores of half-crazed people were rushing through the hallways. Several persons who had been roused from their sleep by cries of "Fire!" were half suffocated by the smoke and made their way with difficulty to the windows.

There they made pitiful appeals for help. They were helped down the ladders by the fremen as rapidly as possible.

Several of them were asphyxiated by the smoke, and all required the attention of physicians, several of whom were soon on the scene. The neighborhood was aroused by the brightly burning building and crowds quickly gathered. The fire lines were carefully guarded by a detail of police and the large force of fremen worked vigorously.

There are 200 rooms in the house and all but four were occupied last night when the fire broke out.

The bodies of three men were removed to the drug store at the corner of Sixth avenue and Forty-second street. Their names are unknown.

The woman who jumped was killed instantly. The other woman is badly hurt.

Officer Daniel Glenn of the Twenty-third Precinct climbed up one of the ladders to the third story and seized a woman.

Mrs. Frank Kibbell of Washington, D. C., died here yesterday. In recognition of her services as a nurse and a Red Cross soldier during the Rebellion the United States Government granted Mrs. Kibbell a special pension. Her body will be sent from Hampton to her home for burial on the steamer Scandia on Tuesday next.

SWIFT VENGEANCE.

An Old Friend Shot Down by His Victim's Husband.

SHREWBURY, Tenn., Feb. 6.—A horrible crime occurred yesterday morning when Jack Blackwell and his son criminally assaulted Mrs. Sam Blackwell. The woman reported the outrage to her husband and he followed Blackwell on sight and is now searching for the younger one, who fled when his father was shot.

Colored Citizens' Convention.

PARIS, Tex., Feb. 6.—Over one hundred negroes met in convention at Wynnewood, L. T., this week. The meeting was strictly secret, no "white trash" being admitted, and only the colored folks refuse to talk about it. The convention thoroughly canvassed the matter of the freedmen's rights and to devise means whereby they would be exempt from the payment of the permit tax, nothing could be learned.

A Train Ditched.

CALVERTSBURG, Ky., Feb. 6.—The Ohio & Big Sandy passenger train was wrecked at Weirton to-night by the rails spreading. One coach went over the embankment and caught fire. The injured are Phil Montague, a boy, and J. D. Quarrier, chief engineer; Steve Hammont and John Bidards. None are fatally injured.

THE LIST WILL BE APPALLED.

The fire in the Royal Hotel broke out at 8:15 this morning, when twenty-four guests registered on the clerk's book Saturday. The hotel is a family one and there are a large number of boarders. The names of these cannot now be obtained.

Aside from the regular and transient guests there were at least forty servants all of them slept on the top floor.

Shots at the Wrong Man.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 6.—Hugh Young of Knoxville created a sensation here last evening by shooting at T. H. Peeler of a theatrical company playing here. The trouble was about a woman. Young missed his mark and received a sound thrashing for his pains.

LODGED IN JAIL.

A TRAIN WRECKER WHO CAUSED A HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 6.—A young Argentinian the British utmost disgust presented the Argentines in their country, and the general alarm seems only too well founded for the country is rent with political feuds.

Foxhall Keene Dies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Foxhall Keene, son of James H. Keene, Wall street millionaire, is dying from injuries received from a fall from his horse in Ireland a few days ago.

GERMAN EDUCATION.

The New Bill Pressed by the Clericals—Berlin Topic.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—Whatever may be the intentions of the Ministry regarding the modification of the Prussian elementary education act, the proceedings in committee show that the Clerical-Conservative majority are not disposed to assume a conciliatory attitude. The clauses containing the most arbitrary provisions have already been passed by a vote of 15 to 12. By an unfeasted majority

A Train-Wrecker Jailed—The De Ayala Tragedy—Violated the Postal Laws— Tried to Shoot His Wife—A Clerical Crook—Involuntary Manslaughter—The Criminal Calendar.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 6.—A vision of glorious wealth rolling into his coffers without the equivalent of labor was the tempting bait that was held out to Sam Snyder, a notorious pawnbroker, to induce him to act as a "fence" for some alleged train robbers.

Snyder listed in the books of the Reichstag on Feb. 15, now $300 less, but says the financial clauses of the bill are modified to suit them. Meantime the popular agitation is spreading through the Empire. The Liberal party is in every state excepting Prussia, where the victory of the Clericals in Prussia will enable them to triumph elsewhere, are organizing demonstrations against the proposed new law.

The German military plenipotentiary, Col.

Von Schleben, and Gen. Von Gossler of the Prussian army, have admitted before the Reichstag that the appointment of the Reichstag to improve the performance of Schiller's "Don Carlos." When the actor playing the Marquis de Posa said: "Sir, give us liberty to think," the Emperor rose and roared: "Get out of my presence."

General Gossler denied that the soldiers were to be permitted if the non-commissioned officers were better social material.

In a subsequent debate in the Reichstag on the subject Herr Richter ridiculed the soldiers' claim to be better social material than the non-commissioned officers.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1892.

Weather forecast for twenty-four hours beginning at 8 a.m. to-day, for Missouri Fair, cold, with a cold wave Sunday night.

A cold wave is expected to continue northward. Rain is preceding it in Kansas and Indian Territory, with snow northwest of the center in Colorado. Cloudy conditions extend northeastward in advance of it as far as Lake Michigan. A cold wave is expected to descend into Minnesota, which is causing snow in that section.

Weather forecast for twenty-four hours, beginning at 8 a.m. to-day, for St. Louis: Rain or snow, followed by decidedly colder and a cold wave Sunday night.

The Ziegelnhein "pull" seems to be especially strong at the Four Courts.

DAVID B. HILL seems bent on brightening and sharpening the knives of his enemies.

The advice of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney ZACHRITZ to the Grand-jury seems to be valuable to some law-breakers.

THE "bears" may be Anarchists, as Mr. WHITAKER intimates, but they differ from the plain every-day Anarchists in that they often wipe out their own possessions.

COMPTROLLER STEVENSON shows that the city is a heavy sufferer from vote-catching philanthropy exercised through violation of the law at the expense of the public.

MEMBERS of the Council agree that the unguarded railroad street crossing should be abolished. There should be no difficulty, therefore, in getting the right sort of a law on the subject.

THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH accepts advertising on a distinct and unequivocal guarantee that its circulation in the City of St. Louis and suburbs is more than double that of the "Republican" and larger than any other Sunday newspaper.

WAS JUDGE NORMILE ignorant of the law which commands him to charge the Grand Jury to examine into the matter of dramshop licenses, or has he wilfully violated it? He can not escape the burden of one or the other of these alternatives.

THE Council had as well realize at once and act upon the conclusion that only a thorough investigation of ZIEGENHEIN'S office will be satisfactory to the people of St. Louis. The facts in his records and outside of them must be ascertained.

CONGRESSMAN MILLS is right in declaring that the tariff reform fight must be pushed forward. But is not passing separate tariff reform bills pushing forward? Would not the discussion and final defeat of a general tariff bill be standing still?

DR. DALTON'S suggestion of the need of a corps of ambulance physicians to attend to the immediate wants of emergency cases is an excellent one. The inhumanity of the present method of dealing with "ambulance" victims does not admit of question.

We are all waiting patiently for the introduction of that free wool bill, which shall confer upon Americans the same advantages in the way of cheap coats that have been conferred upon the Germans by the reciprocity treaty. Foreigners certainly should not have precedence of our own people.

The demand for crossings guards has become so strong that it cannot be much longer resisted. This ought to be satisfactory even to the railroad companies themselves, for, as Councilman ANDERSON points out, proper safeguards mean fast trains. When it is discovered that humanity and economy are at one, humanity has no difficulty in getting its rights.

AMERICAN observers will agree with the London newspapers which are protesting against the bungling manner in which the Osborne case has been handled by the authorities. Nobody questions the guilt of the unhappy lady and few are willing to believe that she does not richly deserve condemnation. But she is a woman about to become a mother, and in such circumstances should not be made to suffer unnecessary torture. Perhaps she has already been punished enough. Should the law officers of the crown decide to set her free their leniency will not be disapproved. There are times when mercy is better than justice.

COUNCIL AND COLLECTOR.
We give St. Louis people to-day a deplorable but not exaggerated account of the condition of their city institutions caused by insufficient revenue. Adequate provisions for the proper care of the sick in the city hospitals, the insane in the asylum and the paupers in the Poor-house, is impossible, Comptroller STEVENSON says, while all departments of the public service are cramped for means as they now are.

One reason for this lack, as we have clearly shown, is the handling of the City Collector's office as a political machine; the favoritism and nullification of law which have been conspicuous in the failure to collect license taxes.

Gov. FLOWERS has been severely criticized because he said "Eats" to a delegation of business men who visited him. The Governor should have shown more consideration for the feelings of New Yorkers.

It is rather that rapid transit electric road is a success. St. Louis sportsmen can run to Chicago, enjoy a wolf hunt and return the same day.

According to JOHN A. MORRIS the Louisian lottery ticket represents nothing.

The police "pull" is a good thing to buck against the Ziegelnhein "pull."

AI, THAYER, STAY THAYER!

QUERIES AND ANSWERS.

Can you tell me what house will succeed to the crown of England on the death of Queen Victoria, and the laws governing the succession?

Manifestly something is wrong in the law or in the Collector's office when business-tax collections show such a falling off since 1885; when license-tax payers find competitors permitted to do business in the same block without license, and when there are 800 more concerns doing a sham shop business under a Federal dramshop license than have taken out State and city license.

A printed list of licensed places and license tax collections should make it easy for the Council's investigating Committee to show how much of the failure in collections is the fault of the law and how much the fault of the Collector or other officials who, by remitting fines or otherwise, aid him in making the evasion of taxes an easy, every-day thing.

Some amendments of the law may be necessary to enable the Collector to do his duty more effectively, and it is certain that some amendments or new remedies are needed to make him faithfully obey and enforce the law. If the Council's investigation and the report of its committee shall fully cover all these points, a very large increase of city revenue from our present taxes will be assured.

A MATRIMONIAL IDYL.

A pleasant example of a generous and noble interpretation of the duties of the marriage relation is afforded by the conduct of Capt. OSBORNE, whose wife has been convicted of theft and is now under arrest in London for perjury.

Instead of drawing around himself the cloak of offended virtue and preserving his own interests by throwing aside his erring wife, Capt. OSBORNE is standing by her and in defiance of social edict is openly giving her support and comfort in her deep disgrace. He was by her side in the court-room giving her tender and sympathetic attention, and it is said has offered to give up all of the advantages of his position in England, which are threatened by his fidelity to her, and begin life anew with her in some distant country.

According to the conventional view which society takes of marriage Capt. OSBORNE is a fool. He should look to his own interests and preserve his own standing. His obligation to his wife ceases with her downfall. He should spurn her as an unworthy creature, continued companionship with whom would contaminate and injure him, and who, having taken a fatal step, should be allowed to suffer the consequences. It is not his duty to risk his material welfare in order to save her from utter misery and destruction.

In what inspiring contrast with this pitiful surrender to mean selfishness is that nobler view of marriage as a sincere compact between man and woman to be companions for better or for worse. What is love worth that cannot stand the test of adversity and is without a touch of charity? What is the marriage bond worth which is forged in self-love and snare at the approach of danger? On the other hand, what they may be worth is demonstrated in part by that devotion which it is sometimes the privilege of the public to see, in which love rises to the highest pinnacle of charity and husband and wife are also friends who fidelity survives the severest strain. This kind of marriage is a sacrament and is one of the most potent elements in the redemption of the world.

The best assurance that the Louisiana lottery sharks will go out of business at the expiration of their present charter lies in the defeat of the charter amendment at the polls. Unless the proposition should be definitely withdrawn, which appears impossible, it is not safe to let the fight drop because the chief of the lottery gang says that the company would not accept the charter.

Mr. MUNDELLA, the English Member of Parliament who described the "McKinley law" as the harbinger of free trade, may not be so very far wrong, although it is not likely that he understood how that measure were really working. There is no doubt that the best way to get rid of an inquiry is to make it burdensome. When this is done it will soon become detectable. The McKinley law is just such an inquiry, and it need not surprise any one if it leads to reform and reduction of tariff duties more radical than if the protectionists had been wiser and less greedy.

THE subject up for discussion in the Women's Forum of the New York Evening World is "Should Wives Be Given an Allowance From the Family Purse?" It will have to come to that, because husbands should be permitted to keep enough money for carfare and luxuries.

At a ball in honor of the German Emperor's birthday a young lady dropped dead from the effects of tight lacing. The moral of this incident is plain: Women who do not want to shorten their stays on earth should lengthen their stays.

A SAN FRANCISCO woman in traveling to New York kissed every conductor, brakeman and other railroad employee who would let her. She evidently prefers the bus as a means of transportation.

Gov. FLOWERS has been severely criticized because he said "Eats" to a delegation of business men who visited him. The Governor should have shown more consideration for the feelings of New Yorkers.

It is rather that rapid transit electric road is a success. St. Louis sportsmen can run to Chicago, enjoy a wolf hunt and return the same day.

Enough has been shown to indicate more of laxity and crookedness in that office than Mr. ZIEGENHEIN himself is probably aware of, or would consent to, with all his stubbornness in taking instructions from the brewery syndicate's attorney rather than from judicial decisions and authoritative official interpretations of the law.

The City Council, therefore, instead of leaving that duty to the next State Legislature, while the revenue shortage stunts every department of the city's service, should give the methods of the Collector's office a thorough investigation and insist on such reforms as may be found necessary.

Manifestly something is wrong in the law or in the Collector's office when business-tax collections show such a falling off since 1885; when license-tax payers find competitors permitted to do business in the same block without license, and when there are 800 more concerns doing a sham shop business under a Federal dramshop license than have taken out State and city license.

Can you tell me what the hairspring of a watch is?

The hairspring is a strip of the finest steel, 1/16 of an inch wide and .007 of an inch thick. It is coiled up in spiral form and is tempered so that it will not snap or break.

The process of tempering the hairspring is as follows: The strip is heated in a furnace until it is red hot, then cooled in water.

After the hairspring is cooled, it is annealed, then polished and finally hardened.

6TH STREET—OLIVE—TO LOCUST

CANNOT BE LAID.

Union Avenue Must Not Be Cut Up by Trucks.

Ex-City Counsellor Leverett Bell filed a suit yesterday afternoon to restrain the St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. from laying its tracks on Union avenue under a permit issued by Mayor Noonan a few days ago. Mr. Bell represents Ernst P. Bell, Clara B. Tracy and the wife of Peter Healy, co-owners of property owners on Union avenue between Delmar avenue and Forest Park. The grade of Union avenue is to be changed so the St. Louis & Suburban road agreed if allowed to lay its tracks on the present grade to change the road when the street was changed to the new grade. The injunction was applied for on the strength of a rumor to the St. Louis & Suburban road intended to put a large force of men at work to-night and rush the job of laying its tracks through before Monday in order to make sure of the franchise.

The object of the suit is to avoid the delay of waiting until the grade of the branch continues straight west to Union avenue before completing its branch to Forest Park. The present connection with the main line of the St. Louis & Suburban road a little East of Union avenue. The line curves at that point to the north and the branch continues straight west to Union avenue, a distance of about 100 feet from the company, and goes along Union avenue to the park. The connection with the main line and the road is an auxiliary one, the branch having been added to the company in spring. The branch is being set lower necessary to do so.

A temporary restraining order was issued by Judge Fisher last yesterday afternoon enjoining the company from laying its tracks until the case can be heard on its merits, and the St. Louis & Suburban Road's application for a permit to lay its tracks on Union avenue was denied. Fisher's court said the cause was the order should not issue, requiring the road to wait until the permanent grade of Union avenue is established. The St. Louis & Suburban road is meeting with much opposition to the branch on the part of the property owners on Union avenue. The suit was brought two years ago by Mrs. Bloom, another Union avenue property owner, to require the company to pay him damages for destroying his place before the road should be built.

Burke Cited to Answer.

PARDIGGE'S WINNINGS.

He Says He Made a Lot of Money By His Luck.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 6.—"One million two hundred thousand dollars," repeated Ethan Pardigge to-day, when asked by a reporter how much his winnings for the past few months would foot up. "Oh, no, not as much as that," the great speculator added. "It's true I have made a heap of money—but not $1,200,000."

"But you still shant a good deal, are you?" suggested the interviewer.

"Yes, but I have bought in a lot of my wife's old clothes."

"Why don't you clear up your deal and go away for a while?"

"I am not a cent richer than when I left home. Just mark my words, wheat will sell for 80 cents a bushel before May," said Pardigge, who, although he declined to give his letter of observation, refused to discuss the subject any farther.

After a short business meeting the members of the order adjourned to the dining-room, where a handsome collation was spread. There was no paper read, but several interesting speeches were made, and the Loyal Legion Singers Soloists gave an excellent manner many of the old war songs. The meeting did not adjourn until a late hour at night.

Dr. Dalton's Shingle Still Up.

Dr. H. C. Dalton, the superintendent of the City Hospital, is indignant because it has been said that he had taken in his shingle.

Some time ago the City Council proposed to investigate the doctor, because he was doing outside work, and had opened an office on Locust street, which was ever day to attend to his own private patients. This was said Dr. Dalton had taken down his sign and abandoned his office.

The doctor, however, said: "I did not run under fire and my shingle is right where all shingles are. I am, out exposed to the wind and the weather. That is, I am an expensive sign, and I had it made so that he who ran or rode on the cable can never read it. I am not afraid to let it be seen, and the more who see it the better I like it. Had it been otherwise I should have suspended it from my house, but I do not. No sir, I have not taken down my sign, and with it, I cannot neglect my business. I am a business man, and am waiting to be kicked out, and I cannot leave my private practice to go places. My sign was not a bad sign, and I am not afraid to let it down now."

Dr. Dalton is waiting for his successor as Superintendent of the City Hospital to be confirmed by the Council. He was appointed nearly a year ago.

PROF. HELIPRIN TO LEAD A RELIEF PARTY IN THE SUMMER.

An Overland Route to Find the Top of the Earth—Way the Original Expedition Was Sent—A Sung Home Amidst the Snows and Glaciers—Provisions Plentiful and Cheer Unbound.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—Prof. Heliprin is busy organizing the Peary relief expedition, and has now given out his plans for the great work.

The design of the Peary party was to pass the winter at Whale Sound, where all the needed sledges and dogs were to be collected for an overland trip in the spring over comparatively smooth snow roads, which are believed to exist in the central portion of the island. It is thought that this journey will not require more than 1,300 miles of sledging, which at most ought not to take more than three months. If he starts as early as May as possible it would bring him back about the end of July or early in August. The distance of about three thousand miles between the distances now proposed have been successfully accomplished. Lieut. Schwab made a trip of 2,361 miles with a sledge, and Baron Wrangel one of 2,200 miles, both of which were believed to be the shortest.

THE POST-DISPATCH—PAGES 9 TO 16.

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 7, 1892.

WERE MISLED.

The Grand-Jury Wanted to Investigate Ziegenhein.

Judge Normile's Neglect of Duty and False Advice Restrained Them.

FOREMAN BAILEY MAKES A STATEMENT AND ATTORNEY ZACHRITZ EXPLAINS.

A Complete Statement of the Uncollected Revenue of St. Louis—The People Need of the Money in the Various Departments of the City Government Not Worth by the Officials—Results of the City's Methods.

The Grand-Jury, which ended its term on Friday last, tried to take up the investigation of the Post-Dispatch charges against City Collector Ziegenhein's management of his office. It was led to believe, however, that such investigation was not within the province of the Grand-jury, and could only be made by the City Council. That charge, however, was so evidently within the power of the law on the subject, may be extended to a certain degree by the statement of certain facts in this connection, which now follow. But it had the effect of preventing any action in the matter by the last Grand-jury.

Judge Normile, the head of the St. Louis Criminal Court done his duty under the law when he charged the last Grand-jury that body would have had no doubt of his power to investigate the affairs of the City Collector and the Drapshop License Department of that office. On page 104 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, chap. 11, sec. 1, art. 1, § 1, it is provided that "any person, in arts. 1 and 2 of that chapter respectively, Art. I, of 'Drapshop' defines 'any person' as 'a drapshop keeper or drapshop for the taking out of the license, that it shall cover but one shop and not be transferred to another,' fines and costs must be paid in writing; that a statement shall accompany the application; that a bond shall be given; and that the license shall be granted without a satisfactory petition; that county clerks shall furnish the Collector with statements showing that they have not issued to any individual collect such license, etc. Then the law as contained in art. 1 of chapter 56 prescribes that 'any art. 1 of the law demands'."

Sec. 4554. GRAND-JURY TO BE CHARGED, ETC. The Judge of the court, or the Grand-jury, when it gives this article in special charge to the Grand-jury at each term of the court. (S. L. 1879, sec. 1.)

Judge Normile neglected to so charge the Grand-jury as thus required by the law, and, it is said, invariably neglected to do so in every case in which he has been called to the Grand-jury in charges to Grand-juries.

There still further showing that it is especially within the province of the Grand-jury to investigate the collection of the drapshop license, the next section reads as follows:

Sec. 4555. CERTAIN OFFICERS TO GIVE INFORMATION—Every civil officer, and every officer of inspection, who has power to inspect any violation of any of the preceding provisions of this article, shall give information to the Grand-jury, for the use of the court in which the offense is committed, he shall appear before them, and take him or them before a justice of the Peace for the purpose, in which such offense is committed, and the grand jury, or either of them, or either of other persons, on oath, in writing, shall be entitled to require the names of the persons accused in other criminal cases, and shall certify the names of the persons so accused, to be given to the court having jurisdiction. (S. L. 1879, sec. 1.)

And finally those who shall aid and assist the Grand-jury in its investigation of drapshop license collection, the law reads:

Sec. 4556. THE PRACTICE OF ASYLUMS—The prosecuting attorneys shall take special care of the interests of the poor, aged, infirm, or other persons, in collecting fines and costs from persons convicted under this article, and shall not exact from them more than the amount of the fine imposed by the court, or the sheriff or other officers, who may fail to exercise their judgment in the collection of such fines and costs. (S. L. 1879, sec. 1.)

These points are necessary to be stated, because the Grand-jury which has just closed its work, as with an incomplete charge from Judge Normile. Then, when the Grand-jury wanted to take up the case, it was led to believe that the investigation would not be within their province, but should be done only by the Court. The only difference in the law to which the Grand-jury could have applied for information on the subject was the words "the people" the Prosecuting Attorney has assisted.

So much for the judges and officers who should have assisted the Grand-jury when it gave this article in special charge to the Grand-jury license department of the City Collector's office. Now for the story.

WHAT FOREMAN BAILEY SAYS. Foreman Chas. H. Bailey of the Grand-jury was present at the Post-Dispatch reporter, and was asked if the Grand-jury had considered the necessity, or advisability, of investigating the City Collector's office on the charge of the Post-Dispatch.

"I am not at home," said the Foreman Bailey, "to speak of any action the may have been taken by the Grand-jury." Nor does the Post-Dispatch want you to, "but we will see about it," says course, that no action was taken. The question is did the matter come up before the Grand-jury, or not? The answer is, "not." It was not discussed officially by that body, reported Foreman Bailey. "It was only," he said, "that the Justice of the Peace told me to tell you that much of it. We discussed the advisability of investigating certain parts of the Collector's office, and the management of the drapshop-license department of his office. But we were led to believe that the Collector's office had no power to make such investigations, and that it could only be made by the City Council, so we dropped the matter. More than this I cannot say."

"The law on the subject provides distinctly," said Bailey, "that the Justice of the Criminal Court has the right to call the new Grand-jury, to their attention the charges relating to the collection of the drapshop license, and the like. Now, in his charge to the Grand-jury, of which you were foreman, so instruct you?"

"You decide it as state whether or not they did so."

"If they had, would you have advised them that such investigation was not in the power of the Collector, but must be conducted by some other?"

"Should the Grand-jury have discussed the question of investigating Collector Ziegenhein's drapshop license collection, to whom would they have applied for information as to their power to do so?"

JAMES G. JUNIOR.

Affidavits in Mary Nevins Blaine's Suit for Divorce.

DEFENDANT CALLED A SCOUNDREL AND A POLTEEN.

Dramatic Scene at the Hearing Before the Referee—History of the Courtship, Marriage and Separation—The Young Wife Left to Struggle Alone—Years That Her Boy May Be Kidnapped.

New York, Feb. 6.—Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., came to New York in secret, and so she departed. That was because she wished to escape the detectives, who are convinced constantly on her track. She arrived in her Sioux Falls home on Thursday morning, having left New York on Tuesday evening, to-day she is back for Deadwood, S. D., to attend the suit for divorce. The trial is set for next Monday. Mrs. Blaine came to New York last Nov. 1, last. She was in the New York Hotel for nearly six weeks before anyone except the members of her family and her most intimate friends knew that she was in town. She came to attend to taking the testimony of the suit. As nearly all the witnesses live in

"The Young Hated Boy."

New York, Feb. 6.—It was agreed by the attorneys of both sides that it would be wiser to take the testimony in this city than to make the witnesses make the long journey to Deadwood. By consent Daniel Lord of No. 12 Broadway was made referee. The testimony was taken behind closed doors. Therefore the world did not learn in many months that husband and wife had become other. Young Mr. Blaine was very pale. He always opened and closed the door for his wife when he had an opportunity, but she never noticed him. Dr. James G. Blaine, father of Mrs. Doran, had something to say one day which added to the dramatic force of the hearing. Mrs. Doran did not think he was present.

During the hearing Mrs. Doran became very much excited. Turning to the persons next to her she remarked: "The man I am this case is a scoundrel and a poltroon."

"Do you know whom you are talking to?" asked one addressed.

"No."

"Well, I am Mr. Blaine."

Mrs. Doran flushed and then continued with her remarks: "I did not know you were Mr. Blaine when I spoke. But I repeat it now. A man who would abandon not only his wife, but his innocent child at the dictate of his father, and—"

"Don't mention my mother's name," interrupted the young man.

"Since you have mentioned it," calmly replied Mrs. Doran, "I am sorry, but my mother, is a scoundrel and a scoundrel."

At the time which followed nearly three months, the whole story was gone into. It began with the meeting of the two at Bar Harbor when young Blaine was scarcely more than a boy. He fell in love with the pretty young girl, and was won over by the Rev. Father Ducey in issue. The Blaine family opposed the marriage bitterly. The young man's bachelor allowance of $1,000 was cut off immediately. Mrs. Blaine was on the stand to give her version of the case. She told of their removal to Pittsburg soon after their marriage, where young Mr. Blaine was a reporter on the Times. They stayed there until the fall, when they came to New York. The husband became a reporter on the Mail and Express. Shortly afterwards he entered a barroom in the city, and the young couple went into a flat upstairs.

A GAY YOUNG MAN.

About that time a reconciliation took place, and Mr. Blaine got an allowance of $1,000 a year. The young wife managed so cleverly that she kept the household expenses within the limit, and the husband entered upon a gay life of a man about town. He lost his position in the broker's office.

In the fall the young and the fair-haired boy were born. The young wife, Mrs. Blaine made every effort to secure a position for her husband, and finally succeeded personally and by means of prominent professional business men in the city. She made every effort to keep him from the brokers' office, and when he did go there, she could make.

In this month of 1888 Secretary Blaine and family went abroad. When they returned to the city, they found their brother met them down the bay and the family reconciliation was complete. The young couple, who had been sent to Bar Harbor with the older Blaines, and soon accompanied them to the family home in Australia, where their son should make his home in Australia, but it soon became evident to the young wife that her life there would be unhappy. Shorter intervals followed, and a personal difference between her and her mother-in-law.

The young Blaine showed conclusively that his husband's family wished to break away the marriage. Young Mrs. Blaine went to New York, and her mother, Mrs. Blaine, which she and her husband had occupied. Her young husband refused to join her, in spite of her insistence. He did not answer these letters, and his mother refused to consider any communication from the young wife. That was in 1888.

CAST ADREPT.

Mary Nevins Blaine has thrown upon her own resources. She testified that from the day she returned to New York from Australia her husband has not contributed one penny toward the support of the family. She had to make living. She signed a contract with Daniel Lord, who was engaged to play a comedy selected by him. While she was studying the part she was seized with influenza and rheumatism, and was forced to leave life and death. For two years she suffered agonies. All the while her husband was enjoying himself, and was making the most of the expense of her long illness were met by a big bequest which was given at the time of her death, and many more were brought out at the hearing. It was shown how Mrs. Blaine, Jr., had married and worsened the young wife, who had abandoned the mother of her son. It was shown, too, how the young husband calmly deserted the wife, at the instance of persons who were told stories about detectives following Mrs. Blaine continually, and an attempt to kidnap the boy. James G. Blaine, Jr., was born in fear—that they will secure her handsome boy.

Mrs. Blaine goes to San Francisco in April, to live for a divorce. She took up her residence there, buying a house. Recently she secured an order for $200 temporary to pay the cost of her suit. Her son, Mr. Blaine's father has recently paid. It had to be paid before the suit could be contested. The sum will make every effort to defeat the suit.

BOTTLING BEER.

The business of bottling beer has, of late years, become an industry of immense proportions and one that cannot be regarded otherwise than as a decided benefit to mankind; for through its means that beverage has been introduced into places where even its name was formerly unknown. That this was a boon cannot be disputed, because, once tasted, the drink was immediately taken into favor, and once a favorite, it usually supplants some stronger alcoholic stimulant. To that some attribute the reason why it is a favorite among the masses.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6.—Mr. A. J. Sawyer of Minneapolis, who is a member of the House Committee on Agriculture, a few days ago in opposition to the anti-option bill, today continued his statement to the committee respecting the system of business practices by the large wheat buyers of the Northwest, and defending the custom of buying options on the exchanges to cover the possibility of loss on the wheat in elevators. He said that the speculator caused the option system to be adopted, and that the speculator himself in those countries or localities where beer has become the most common drink.

That the moderate drinking of good beer is nourishing and strengthening to the body, without injury to the mental faculties, is an established fact, and it will be a day of infinite blessing when its use among the masses will be increased.

That this day will eventually arrive there is every indication, and the beer-bottling industry will have much to do in bringing it about.

While all this is true of real Barley, Malt and Hop Beer, it can by no means be said of the cheap Corn Beers which many brewers have brought in market. Reliable firms, like the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, who brew exclusively fine beer of best Barley, Malt and Hops only, will in the end maintain the favor of the public, and have made St. Louis beer known as the best in the market.

THE ANTHRACTITE COAL TRADE.

It Continues as a Special and Exciting Factor in Speculation.

New York, Feb. 6.—The position of the anthracite coal trade has been an interesting factor in speculation for a long time. It was made particularly exciting yesterday, because of the activity and advances in the coal stocks at the Stock Exchange and the multitude of rumors which was circulated.

One of the most startling of the rumors came out after the close of the market, when it was learned that the man who had been moving about while the stock market was open.

The report alleged that the Lehigh Valley road had secured control of the Central Railroad of New Jersey with a guarantee of 100 per cent of the cost of the stock.

The story was denied by President Maxwell of the Central of New Jersey, and by President F. N. D. Ladd of the First National Bank, who is a director in the Jersey Central. The preceding report had been based on the fact that the coal companies had formed among the anthracite coal producing companies and that new plans had been agreed upon by which they could be better controlled by rates.

The live circulation of rumors kept stock brokers and newspaper men "hustling" in the world of investment in the stock market in the principal anthracite coal shares.

Jersey Central road has been quoted at 100 per cent each. President Maxwell of the Central New Jersey said:

"There is no truth in the report that this company has been leased or is controlled by the Lehigh Valley. It has no connection with that road.

Mr. Blaine was very pale.

He always opened and closed the door for his wife when he had an opportunity, but she never noticed him.

Dr. James G. Blaine, Jr., son of Mrs. Doran, had something to say one day which added to the dramatic force of the hearing. Mrs. Doran did not think he was present.

During the hearing Mrs. Doran became very much excited. Turning to the persons next to her she remarked: "The man I am this case is a scoundrel and a poltroon."

"Do you know whom you are talking to?" asked one addressed.

"No."

"Well, I am Mr. Blaine."

Mrs. Doran flushed and then continued with her remarks: "I did not know you were Mr. Blaine when I spoke. But I repeat it now. A man who would abandon not only his wife, but his innocent child at the dictate of his father, and—"

"Don't mention my mother's name," interrupted the young man.

"Since you have mentioned it," calmly replied Mrs. Doran, "I am sorry, but my mother, is a scoundrel and a scoundrel."

At the time which followed nearly three months, the whole story was gone into. It began with the meeting of the two at Bar Harbor when young Blaine was scarcely more than a boy. He fell in love with the pretty young girl, and was won over by the Rev. Father Ducey in issue. The Blaine family opposed the marriage bitterly. The young man's bachelor allowance of $1,000 was cut off immediately. Mrs. Blaine was on the stand to give her version of the case. She told of their removal to Pittsburg soon after their marriage, where young Mr. Blaine was a reporter on the Times. They stayed there until the fall, when they came to New York. The husband became a reporter on the Mail and Express. Shortly afterwards he entered a barroom in the city, and the young couple went into a flat upstairs.

A GAY YOUNG MAN.

About that time a reconciliation took place, and Mr. Blaine got an allowance of $1,000 a year. The young wife managed so cleverly that she kept the household expenses within the limit, and the husband entered upon a gay life of a man about town. He lost his position in the broker's office.

In the fall the young and the fair-haired boy were born. The young wife, Mrs. Blaine made every effort to secure a position for her husband, and finally succeeded personally and by means of prominent professional business men in the city. She made every effort to keep him from the brokers' office, and when he did go there, she could make.

In this month of 1888 Secretary Blaine and family went abroad. When they returned to the city, they found their brother met them down the bay and the family reconciliation was complete. The young couple, who had been sent to Bar Harbor with the older Blaines, and soon accompanied them to the family home in Australia, where their son should make his home in Australia, but it soon became evident to the young wife that her life there would be unhappy. Shorter intervals followed, and a personal difference between her and her mother-in-law.

The young Blaine showed conclusively that his husband's family wished to break away the marriage. Young Mrs. Blaine went to New York, and her mother, Mrs. Blaine, which she and her husband had occupied. Her young husband refused to join her, in spite of her insistence. He did not answer these letters, and his mother refused to consider any communication from the young wife. That was in 1888.

HIGH TIMES IN MOTT STREET.

New York Chinamen Banquet Their Newly-Elected Mayor.

New York, Feb. 6.—The Chinese New Year began Jan. 28, but with characteristic delay the New York Chinamen are still celebrating the anniversary. The last, and in some respects the most elegant and exciting festivity of the season, was a dinner to the newly-elected Mayor of Chinatown, Choo Chuck Wang, given in the Chinese Temple, No. 16 Mott street, yesterday afternoon. The heaviest "swells" of the Chinese exclusive Celestials gathered about the well-spread tables. Most of these were merchant princes of Mott street, but an official character was given to the banquet by the presence of the Chinese Consul, Chin Woon, and his attaché.

These functionaries drove to the Temple at 4 o'clock and were the object of a good deal of social gaiety.

Chin Woon was resplendent in a light blue silk embroidered gown, with a navy blue sash attached with a sword, robed in pink muslin, and the Mayor was in all twelve yards of exclusive Celestials gathered about the well-spread tables.

dicted wife became his co-worker in his dramatic enterprise and the artistic success of the company gave it a world-wide reputation.

It is to be seen to show the versatility of this band of notable players that Manager Piton has gathered together in friendly rivalry to the Daly, Palmer, and Frohman organizations.

"A Modern Match" is underlined for Monday and Friday evenings. It is a scene drama in four acts by George French, author of "The Last Straw," "Her First Love" and "Her Release." This extensive repertoire will no doubt serve to show the versatility of this band of notable players that Manager Piton has gathered together in friendly rivalry to the Daly, Palmer, and Frohman organizations.

The aggregation of talent known as the Piton Stock Co. will play its first engagement in this city at the Grand Opera-house, opening this evening at 8 o'clock.

The company will consist of a modern Match, which is to be followed by "Good-freight Middleton, Gentleman," "The Last Straw," "Her First Love" and "Her Release."

The competition with which steam has supplanted sail in the grain carrying may be seen from the fact that 1,265 vessels which carried cargoes of grain from the port of Liverpool last year, 1891, 67,228 barrels of American grain to foreign ports, and 1,265 vessels of foreign grain to Liverpool. In this year 78,000 barrels of grain were exported before in any quantity.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Quick Reaction in Wall Street Following the War Scare.

PECULIAR FEATURES IN THE RASTY TURN OF THE MARKET.

A Sorely Trying Week for Speculators—Recruits for the Banks of the Bears—Some of the Causes of the Decline—London a Heavy Seller of Stocks—A Day's Transactions.

New York, Feb. 6.—The past week has been a sorely trying one to the financial community. Five days ago the stock and bond markets seemed in the soundest and strongest condition possible. Not only were prices advancing, but the character of the buyer was such as to inspire confidence. Financial institutions were taking large blocks of stocks and bonds out of the street for investment purposes and locking them up. The low rate of interest on money made the net returns of railroad securities at current prices particularly tempting. Moreover, the market, owing to the heavy liquidations which had taken place just before as a result of the Chilean war, was in sound condition. There was no topness. The future looked bright. Then began the decline which lasted till yesterday afternoon. There was heavy selling by London, determined attacks by the long bears and later large liquidations by local operators. The puncture of the weekly issue of the shares added to the general feverish and unsettled feeling. For the first day or so Wall street was nonplussed. Bankers and operators were mystified. Then a strong bearish feeling grew up. It seemed to come from the small operators, and some of the more highly belated writers for the press. Only bankers and investors seemed to escape its baneful influence.

The sudden growth of a bearish feeling in the face of favorable conditions was something almost unique in the history of Wall street. During recent years at least, the period following the termination of a rising market has been marked by a continuance of the bullish feeling. It has usually taken the average operator weeks, or even months, to open his eyes to the fact that the market has stopped rising and is going down. In the present instance the entire community, that is the speculative portion of it, turned its coat within two days. A bull was as hard to find this week as a bear last. The explanation of this, we believe, lies in the fact that the reaction attendant on the Chilean scare was so violent that it shook out a horde of little bulls. When an operator has been cleaned out of his holdings he is a natural bear. This was the condition in which the small operators found themselves after the Chilean scare. The market followed that decline and did not give them a chance to get in. Then they held off for another reaction. If there had been no war scare and the market had simply declined gradually from the high prices of the first week in January the small operators would have been still long of stocks. And by an unfailing law of human nature, being long, they would have been bulls.

It is much better for the future of the market that things have happened as they have. The usual liquidation which follows the termination of a rise in the market is sure to follow the termination of a decline. The liquidation is over. Hence there is apt to be an interval lasting even for months between the date when the market has aggregated what is called a bull market. In the present instance we have had an interval of six points in less than a month, depending upon the time of general and the market is in first-rate condition for another rise provided conditions remain favorable. The market has stopped for the decline in prices, has lost its momentum and is now moving into the less pleasing factors of the situation. Those who have large sums invested in stocks and bonds will be disappointed.

NOT TAIL-ENDERS.

Mr. Von der Ahe Objects to the Reflections on the Browns.

HE HAS NO CONFIDENCE IN EARLY BASE BALL PREDICTIONS.

A Desperate Battle Between Unskilled Fighters—The Fitzsimmons-Maher Contest Will Take Place on the Date First Set—Local Sparring and Wrestling Tournament—Sporting News in General.

The St. Louis president does not at all enjoy the position accorded the Browns by the base ball statisticians who got up the records of all the players to be found in the various teams next season, and who after comparing the men predicted that St. Louis would finish 10th in the regular season. "It is hard to see with what pardonable pride the Eastern statistician in 'locating' the clubs in the order of their alleged strength," said Mr. Von der Ahe yesterday. "This same statistician has put the Browns in the 10th place last season, and had we not been thrown down by a trio of drunkards we would have won the pennant." The Browns are now 10th in the club showing how remarkable are the club's showings.

In making good the team's seldom win percentage, it takes good hard ball playing to do that. The Browns have a first-class pitcher in Russel. Brooklyn has three rattling pitchers, a wonderfully indomitable old-timer, and a young one. There is Washington. I don't see where New York is stronger than Hardy's team, outside of Russel."

Speaking of the report that Stearns would play first base for the Browns the coming season, President Von der Ahe said: "I am glad that position is given to him. Werden is one of the hardest hitters in the profession, and is a big man. He is naturally very active. He has shown strong playing abilities the past two years, and he is a man who has had his share of heart and pluck for it's all that's in him. He is a good worker and I do not doubt that he will do good work for St. Louis, and complete the team. The Browns, Glasscock and Phinney will form one of the strongest in the country. They are all workers, who in my judgment, make a creditable showing for St. Louis."

The new order of things has wiped out saying that the Browns are the leaders of the increasing character. The visiting clubs will be treated with more consideration by clubs and individuals. They will be allowed the privilege of practicing on the home grounds say for an hour or so in the morning, and the like. Local men are taking good care of themselves, so as to be in the best possible trim at the opening of next season's racing. Some of the great greenhorn drivers and their friends claim that it will be the passenger or better speed than ever before.

Team to represent the M. B. & A. C. and Cycling Club in the present year have not been chosen, and a number of new members for racers have been appointed. The new rules for both men and women will be adopted, and the rule requiring each to report for practice will be enforced.

There's another good move made with the consolidation of the League and Association, which hotel men, at least, will be happy about. The members will be permitted to wear his spiky shoes from the hotel to the ball grounds. He will now wear them to the hotel, get their meals and lounge around all day, and when they go to the track they will show up on the ball field like a lot of being full of hammination. Good ball in their first game. But the chances are they would make a poor showing, and the public would be disappointed, the business for the rest of the series. This is largely due to their inability to get at all the time for hours of riding fairly hard. When riding on worn-out roads with a pneumatic care should be exercised in not having the rear too hard. Roads are not in condition, while a comparatively soft tire will overcome a greater extent than one blown hard.

For the annual elections, which will take place in March, approaches, some lively canvassing will be done and the campaign promises will be redoubled.

Fight—CORBETT'S TALK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—When Jim Corbett proposes to stop there than at Madison Square Garden, he will be in the grand stadium on one side of the street.

Corbett should not hope to carry off a buff single on this account. Because he says that the Britisher has no use for his game doesn't make it so for a long chance. Mitchell can keep his end up in almost any argument and Corbett is not the type of man who would be a pugilist who does not beat a dozen "comers" will not be rated above a "fair'un."

"Pompadore Jim" is, of course, a question.

THE CONSPIRACY OF MRS. BUNKER.

A Story of a Fisherman's Wife, a Handsome Duellist and the Vigilante Committee.

BY BRETT HARTE.

(Francis Hart Hart) It has been known through his studies in literature in the newspapers of San Francisco that he has written a book entitled "The Fisherman's Skull," which was published in 1870 by the "Golden Language" from San Francisco. It is known as "The Heathen Chase." Since that time he has written for SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH. Copyright.

PART I.

On the northerly shore of San Francisco Bay all men of bluffs terminate in a profusion of debris of the cliff above, there is a narrow stretch of beach, salt meadow, and scrub oak. The abrupt wall of rock behind them is so high that it is almost impossible to climb up to the land and return in safety. In many places like her first kiss, she had it very much.

Before long she would remain to sing, and the nature of the song was not known to the author than the drowses and the dreams and the Court of the remnant entrance of a man who was being some being living sticks.

Members of the off and on committee most delicate of appearance, were charmed by the expression. To express themselves, at with one hand, a hand to the Queen does the singers reflect the person of the stage, pause, and the prima donna was.

same court members may from the both by the only American state more than a month and Nicolini had it of his family that she was in a sea voyage. My belief is that she could not be seen from the decks of passing ships. And yet the fisherman's cabin was occupied by Zephron Bunker and his young wife, and he had succeeded in wrestling from the hard soil pastures for a cow and goats, while his lateen-sailed fishing boat occasionally rode quiet in the sheltered cove below.

Three years before Zephron Bunker, an ex-whaler, had found himself stranded on a San Francisco beach, he had married a widow, Mrs. Potlatch farmer. At the end of the year he had acquired little taste for the farmer's business, but considerable for the farmer's youthful daughter, who equally weary of small agriculture, had consented to elope with him in order to escape it. They were married at Oakland; he put his scant earnings into a fishing boat, discovered the site for his cabin, and brought his bride thither. The novelty of the change pleased her, although perhaps it was not without effect. Suddenly he raised his dark eyes and said felt this pierces the obscurity of her heart with a quick suspicion, impatience, and fear. "I don't know what you gave way, however, to a look that she thought was quite respectful. Then he rose, stretched himself to his full height, approaching the kitchen door, leaned listlessly against the door post.

"Don't suppose we are ever lonely here?"

"Of course not. You are probably here with your husband, and I am happy together."

Mrs. Bunker did not say, what was the fact, that she had married him because of his companionship of her husband with her happiness. Perhaps it had never occurred to her that he had married her, but it had done it.

The old man smiled gravely at the change in her husband's abstraction.

"If you go to San Francisco?" he continued.

"I have never been there at all. Some day I expect you will go there, and when you do, I will say to you, 'I don't think it will pay you. You'll never be happy there as here, where you have freedom and freedom you have here. You'll never be your own mistress again. But how does it happen that you are still a child in spirit? You are now a woman advanced in life, and your husband is still a boy?'

He would speak of himself, but at least he had the courage to say something. She related how her family had emigrated from Kansas across the plains and into California, and then to San Fran. How she didn't care for it, and how she came to marry the seafaring man who brought her here, and the great joy of their marriage, and as unresigned as to a superior being—albeit his attention wandered at times, and apparently worked to meet his companion's advances.

Even his dark eyes, which had obliged Mrs. Bunker to keep her from wearing or even knowing his older and unequal companionship; it gave her a freedom her girlhood had never known, yet added a protection that suited her still childish dependency, while it tickled her pride with its equality. When not engaged in her easy household duties in her three-roomed cottage, or the care of her rocky garden, she had time enough to indulge her fancy over the exterior world, that wrapped the invisible city so near and yet unknown to her, in the salts that slipped in and out of the Golden Gate, but of whose destination she knew nothing; and in the long smoke trail of the mail steamer which had yet brought her no message. Like all dwellers by the sea, her face and her thoughts were more frequently turned toward it, and as with them, it also seemed to her that never change was coming into her life would come across that vast unknown expanse. But it was here that Mrs. Bunker was mistaken.

It had been a sparkling summer morning. The waves were running before the dry northwest trade winds with crystalline but colorless brilliancy. Sheltered by the high, northerly bluff, the house and its garden were exposed to the untempered heat of the sun, and reflected from the rocky wall below, it was comfortable and cool among the scrub oaks and manzanita bushes gave out the aroma of baking wood; occasionally a faint fragrance of roses and beach grass was blown along the shore; even the lingering odors of the Bunker's cooking, were idealized and refined by the same breath of the sea in the dazzling sun, bending over her path and letters with a small bow, felt the comfort of home, but never change was coming into her life would come across that vast unknown expanse. But it was here that Mrs. Bunker was mistaken.
